of Prince Henry and Princess Irene.

SAINT DAY FOR ROYALTY.

Better-The Republican Protection of France-An Assurance from Home-Cable Notes.

May 24.—Princess Irene of Prince Henry, arrived yesterday from the British Embassy by train. The Princesses Victoria and Princess Irene were received by the Queen at the British Embassy. A most appropriate meeting was had. The route of the train was lined with flags and the large crowd cheered and applauded.

The emperor was asleep when the party arrived at the palace. Houses along the Henry and Princess Irene held a last evening at the palace. The charming couple were sumptuously dressed, and a salute of thirty guns had exchanged rings.

Frederick the Dwyer Emperor
was present during the ceremony.
Henry and the crown prince were in naval uniforms. The bands of General Von Moltke arose, enthusiastically greeted by the multitude and bridgepins are first guests of Queen Victoria and the Henry and his bride left the army depot by special train at 6 o'clock and, where they will sleep the night, there received a continuous train of people along the route from the depot.

THE STATE AND RESPONSES.

In a speech of welcome cork all along the route of the emperor he said: "I will see you again." He then left the train and went on with his wife to the station.

DEMOCRATIC RALLY.

The Boys Down in Couch Listen to Several Local Speakers.

The democratic rally held last night in Couch's hall was large and enthusiastic.
A platform had been erected in the Park block between P and G streets, and before the hour set for the speaking people began to congregate on the sidewalks and around the stand, drawn thither by the musical and eloquent announcement of the rally.

The meeting was under the auspices of the Tilden Democratic Club No. 1, and the president of the club, John Flannery, acted as master of ceremonies. Among the prominent Democrats on the stand were Frederick V.
Holman, Col. Taylor, Judge C. B. Bellinger,
T. M. Richardson, Wm. A. Dole, W. W.

The Oregonian.

PORTLAND, SATURDAY, MAY 26.

ERRONEOUS STATEMENTS CORRECTED

The statement made by Mr. John P. Irish that Judge Gresham voted for Tilden in 1860 and is a freeholder was an extraordinary error for an experienced journalist and intelligent politician to make. After the war Gen. Gresham made two unsuccessful attempts to go to congress as a representative from Indiana, but he was defeated in each instance by the late Michael C. Kerr, Grant then made Gresham U. S. district judge. He was a pronounced Democrat in the pre-lincoln canvass of 1860 and at the Cincinnati convention four years later he was counted among the advocates of a third term for Grant and was deeply interested in the struggle of the stalwart 300 at Chicago. In April, 1862, he joined the cabinet of President Arthur as postmaster-general, and in September 1862 was transferred to the head of the treasury department. He shared the views of President Arthur and Secretary Folger with respect to a revision of the tariff and a reduction of the surplus revenue. These facts concerning Gen. Gresham's political career show that he has been since the war a consistent and stalwart republican, a resolute follower of Grant, Conkling and Arthur, without faint of Thaddeus about him. Gresham always kept to stalwart company in the republican party to be suspected of Tildenism. President Arthur, who was entirely familiar with Gresham's political career, was not slow to call him Tilden's strongest ally in 1860. The character of the judge could have voted for Tilden after taking part in the republican national convention of 1860. George William Curtis has a mother in the Harper, and did their bidding when he supported Cleveland after failing to be elected as delegate in the convention that nominated Blaine but Gresham never had any master and to charge him with having been a "Tilden voter" in 1862 is as absurd as to charge Morris, Grant and Conkling with having been Tilden voters in 1876 because Hayes the nominee, was not a man after their own heart.

Mr. Irish has made an absurd statement on the strength, probably, of a cheap campaign he started on its travels by some person wholly irresponsible. We cannot suppose Mr. Irish evolved so monstrous a falsehood out of his own inner consciousness small democratic statesmen are not above the construction of campaign lies for general circulation, but Mr. Irish is a well informed journalist must know that this story about Gresham is entirely without respectable foundation. Tilden was a representative, and a dangerous one, of all things that Gresham had contended against in war and peace, and it was as impossible for Gresham to have voted for Tilden as for Tilden to have voted for Grant. In all things Gresham and Tilden were as far apart as Abraham Lincoln and Jefferson Davis.

It is singular too that Mr. Irish should be so inaccurate in his statement as to Gresham's position on the tariff question. He says Gresham is an out-and-out free trader. In fact Gresham is a protectionist, not indeed one of the extreme kind, but still a protectionist in principle and an advocate of legislation to make protection effective in practice. And he is on the record in this behalf, as Mr. Irish should know. Perhaps, however, Mr. Irish would say that Gresham's opinions are not important enough to be worth knowing. Then he might have the grace to silent about them.

In October 1863 Gen. Gresham addressed a great meeting in the city of New York in advocacy of the election of Mr. Blaine. At that time Gresham was secretary of the treasury. On the tariff question he said:

It is not to be forgotten that this (the protective) party would have involved us in infinite trouble if we had not been able to get out of our unwise financial situation as it was heretofore. In removing our tariff laws and reducing our customs revenues, home interests should not be neglected. Indeed, protection to our manufacturers and laborers can and should be afforded by taxing such imports as come to us to compete with our home products. It is a good thing to do.

Massachusetts: Rhode Island and Connecticut through their enormous importations hold their own reasonably well but the fertile farms purely agricultural districts of New England are becoming depopulated by wholesale emigration to the West. The farming lands are very low in value and are fast falling into the hands of foreign immigrants or the idle rich we have described. An intelligent newspaper published in the most fertile farming district of agricultural New England, admits that steady decline and tries to explain it by the racial restlessness of the New Englander. This is plausible but it does not touch one of the chief reasons why the New Englander turns his back on his own reasonably well but the fertile farms purely agricultural districts of New England are becoming depopulated by wholesale emigration to the West. The farms are not altogether material they are moral, a young, aspiring vigorous body and from independent spirits abounding in the spirit of enterprise and ambition.

Mr. Irish should not be surprised. We told him that a man who is not in the democratic party is not likely to be a protestant minister, but that is all power of the government it works well to meet and maintain protective laws.

In his own view Mr. Irish should not be surprised. We told him that a man who is not in the democratic party is not likely to be a protestant minister, but that is all power of the government it works well to meet and maintain protective laws.

HISTORICAL NOTES

Senator Sherman recently introduced a bill to appropriate $25,000 for the erection of a monument to the memory of George Rogers Clark in the recognition of his eminent services in the occupation and conquest of the Northwest territories during the revolutionary war. The New York Tribune, on the other hand, after upon which to cut off Senator Sherman makes the extraordinary statement that no such Clark is known to fame, and says it "Senator Sherman has forgotten his school geography and is in need of information touching the history of this country." This information the Tribune takes upon itself to supply. We quote further:

There was a Clark not Clark, who explored the Northwestern territories and undoubtedly deserved well of his country, but his name was Williams, and his services were honored, not during the revolution, but during the years 1804 and 1805. If this Clark is to be believed, he was appointed by a state Senator, but ought to let us know what is the name with Lewis. The exploring expedition is known to every schoolboy. There was a Clark, Lewis, who was on had been a captain in the army and made secretary to President Jefferson, while he was a lieutenant, and Lewis was appointed governor of Missouri territory in recognition of his services while Clark became only general of the Missouri militia in Indiana again. A statue bearing the name of Lewis stands in the capitol, the vote of recalling to Senator Sherman's mind the events the statue is intended to commemorate much more effectually than a statue to either individually, while the attempt to erect a Clark "boom" at the expense of the equally meritorious Lewis should be disconcerted.

The Times needs a school history much more than Senator Sherman needs a school geography. Senator Sherman knows exactly what he was about when he introduced his bill for a monument to George Rogers Clark. The name of George Rogers Clark is known to every schoolboy. George Rogers Clark, under command of General Gresham, made him a colonel, and with a single company of volunteers he dropped down the Ohio river from the site of the present city of Louisville. On the 15th of July, 1778, he took Kaskaskia by surprise. Hence he pushed across the country to Vincennes, a most laborious march, and captured that position February, 1779. He wished no march at once on Detroit, the headquarters of British power and influence in the Northwest but his means were inadequate, and, returning to Virginia for additional forces, he was detained to take part in the resistance to Arnold's invasion of that state. After he had left, General Clark hastened back to the Northwest with the remainder of his force for the execution of his scheme against Detroit, but was unable to organize a sufficient force till the news reached him of the abandonment by England of the American war. After Gen. Clark rendered great services in clearing Kentucky and Ohio of hostile Indians, he was due to George Rogers Clark that the great domain northwest of the Ohio was secured to the republic at the peace of 1783. He died near Louisville in 1818. Counties in Kentucky, Ohio and Illinois were named for him and one of the greatest streets in Chicago bears his name.

William Clark spoken of in the extract quoted above who with Meriwether Lewis came to Oregon in 1805, was a brother of George Rogers Clark, sixteen years his junior. William Clark, after his return from the Oregon expedition was made an Indian agent. It was offered a command during the war of 1812, but declined it. In 1813 President Madison made him governor of Missouri territory, which office he held till the organization of the state in 1821. Shortly after this he was made general superintendent of Indian affairs, and held this position till his death in 1838.

The name of these brothers should bewilder Clark not Clarke. The error is spellingly employed in a number of geographical names, as in one of the cities of Washington territory. These same brothers have a full share in the responsibility for the geographical name of the one in the Ohio and Mississippi valleys the other in the Pacific Northwest. The name is historic, and Oregon's interest in it has led this Oregonian to lay these facts before its readers and to correct the extraordinary errors into which the New York Times has fallen.

THE DECLINE OF NEW ENGLAND

George Champlin in the North American Review says that though the time was when the New England spirit leavened all the national life that time is gone never to return. The native stock in the fine part of rural New England is slowly but steadily being replaced by French Canadians Germans Scandinavians and Irish, new lines of social demarcation between classes are being defined and castes are being formed. The equality which once existed between man and man, between employer and employee, has been changed the pride in honest manual labor of the day when the square loaf of bread was sold to the farmer or the farmer's hired man is dying or dead. The independent man is dying or dead at the Cincinnati convention." As a free trade organ "the Pot" would not forget to claim Judge Gresham as an independent organ it would not omit to announce him as a wronging of 1875.

The New York Evening Post, a paper that supported Mr. Cleveland's reelection and will continue to support him in a recent sketch of Judge Gresham says: Some of his most interesting decisions as U. S. district judge were rendered in cases growing out of the whisky ring exposures, and it was perhaps the influence which made him a pronounced Tilden man in the preliminary canvass of 1876 and at the Cincinnati convention." ## IN AND ABOUT PORTLAND.

To DEVELOP GALENA MINE.—A few days ago the Galena Mining & Smelting Co. was incorporated in this city. The company owns twelve claims near the Santiam river in the Cascade mountains, in Linn county, about half a mile from Albany. The property lies at the head of the Oregon trail, located within fifteen miles. Galena is the principal mineral but some gold and silver quartz is found. One of the incorporators said yesterday that it is his intention to go to work on the mine as soon as the cost of a road will be built from the mine to the nearest rail road, a distance of six miles. Then it will be determined what kind of machinery is necessary for treating the ore, after which the work of development will begin in earnest.

WOOL MEN "AGIN THE GOVERNMENT."—W. J. Snodgrass, of La Grande, ex-member of the republican state central committee from Oregon, arrived in the city yesterday. He says that he is not a member of the republican party in Union and Umatilla counties. "Hermann will make a good run," he said. "The democracy's attitude on the tariff question will give us many votes from the wool men. Only one man is buying the Oregon lamb and mutton products, in the event that the tariff on wool will be done away with. This buyer bought 80,000 pounds at $6.10 cents recently. This same wool brought 15 cents last year. Credit prospective free trade with this reduction in price, which the wool growers desire."

PROMINENT BOSTONIANS COMING.—Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr., one of the justices of the supreme court of Massachusetts, and son of Oliver Wendell Holmes, the poet, will probably be in town next week. Judge Holmes and wife, accompanied by George O. Shattuck, one of the leaders of the Boston bar, also a director of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe road, arrived in San Francisco yesterday and contemplated returning home via the Northern Pacific. Their visit is purely one of observation and pleasure. Judge Holmes is desirous of learning something about the Chinese.

SUIT OF A NOTE.—Suit was commenced in the United States circuit court yesterday by Elizabeth Wilkinson against Stephen Fairman to recover the sum of $1550, principal and interest of a note for $1000 to plaintiff, who is also the citizen of the state of Pennsylvania. It is also alleged that on May 22, 1888, defendant for a valuable consideration, acknowledged a note for $1000, and that nothing has been paid thereon, and that interest on said note by the law of Iowa is 6 per cent, and that the amount now due is $1550, for which and costs and disbursements a judgment is asked.

GREAT OAKMAN HENS.—James Seely, the well-known sculler, late of Victoria, is making his home in Portland for the time being. He will challenge the winner of the Victoria-Peterson contest, soon to take place of Victoria. Peterson is the man whom Connor recently defeated at San Francisco. If Seely's challenge is accepted the race will take place on the Willamette River or of Portland. Payne and other well known oarsmen are expected here this season, and will participate in a series of races. Seely has considerable reputation as a trick oarsman, and will give an exhibition of his skill before he departs.

HAND MANAGER.—Frank Rawlins, who is employing a boat on Lake river, which extends into the Columbia opposite St. Helens, with a very bad accident Wednesday. His right hand came in collision with the circular saw and was badly mangled. The end of the thumb was torn away and the saw cut into the wrist breaking some of the bones. He was brought to this city for treatment. Dr. E. J. Jones operated the thumb at the first joint and removed a number of pieces of bone from the wrist. Dr. Joseph thinks he will be able to save the hand.

LABOR DAY.—To-morrow will be Labor day and a legal holiday. The federated trades will celebrate the day in a modest way, by giving a parade and open air meeting. The various unions will meet at the apparel hall corner of Taylor and First streets, and form for the parade. After a short march they will assemble at the city plaza where members from each of the unions will address the meeting. Judge Clegg, of the law firm of Clegg & Clegg, the mayor and members of the common council will be invited to attend.

PREPARING FOR THE TOURNAMENT.—A dozen young boys have organized a tender company, and will make an effort to win the tenth prize at the forthcoming firemen's tournament. Yesterday they secured one of the tenders formerly used by No. 3 fire company in volunteer days, and will go into training at once. The numbers of the team are: Edward Gaten, Captain, 1st Lt., W. F. Wilson, 2d Lt., T. Ward, John McKinnon, Joseph Gaten, August Fishburn, Harry McClusky, George Ryan, Emmet Allison, A. Cohen, E. Scott.

TO-DAY'S COMPETITIVE DRILL.—There will be a competitive drill at the Bishop Scott academy this afternoon between three companies of the fire department. The companies are working and are equally matched. The members are composed of the small boys. There is considerable interest as to which company will be successful in carrying off the banner. The judges are J. Farren, General Shofner, A. J. Coffey, I. Company, Friends of the academy and the public generally are invited.

WILL EXTEND TIMBER INVESTMENTS.—Mr. L. Colwell, of Skamokawa, W. T., was in the city yesterday direct from his Southern California ranch. He was showing some fine specimens of timber and logs and raisins. He has a large tract of timber near San Diego in the San Luis Rey valley, but is well satisfied to pass a good part of the year north. After one year's trial and investigation of Columbia river lumber interests he has arranged to extend his investments here that trade.

GUINA DROWNS.—The 12-year-old daughter of W. C. Copeland, who lives two miles this side of St. Helens, was drowned in a slough near her father's home yesterday. How the fatal accident occurred is not known, as only the bare information of the child's death was received. The telegram came at 7 o'clock last evening to Miss Dorcas, sister of the deceased, who was visiting her sister, Mrs. Capt. Kellogg, in this city.

BIDS FOR A DWELLING.—Bids for the erection of a double tenement house for W. E. Robertson, at the corner of Alder and West Park streets, were opened yesterday at the office of H. J. Hepp, architect. The bids were as follows: John Robertson, $3676; J. Campbell, $3275; J. Chapman, $322; Michael J. Hepp, $307; C. C. Morris, $322; Muir, $307; Dwyer, $300; W. P. Lewis, $700.

DWELLING BURST.—The dwelling of James Davis, on Lady Island, opposite La Canas, was burned to the ground at 11 o'clock Wednesday night. A lamp exploded in bed and had only time to escape before the burning house. A few bed clothes and a carpet are all that were saved. Loss, about $1000; insurance, light.

WILL NOT MOVE AWAY.—Rev. H. K. Hines states that the announcement of his removal to Boise City, Idaho, is premature. He has oversight of the Methodist church in that city, but his duties as editor of the Pacific Christian Advocate will prevent his removal from this city, at least till the end of the conference year.

FOR POET SOUND ENVOY.—Mr. E. Clayton was strongly recommended to the immigration board to represent to the foreign minister of Puget sound. He is known as a very active man, and is well and favorably known on Puget sound. There is no doubt that he would prove a very efficient officer in the above capacity.

In illustration of how fast a popular idea can travel our attention is called to a club in Scotland that has placed an order for a large lot of Camel Cigarettes, stating their desire to adopt the brand and the asking to be allowed to do so. The club consists of the members of Larmer Tree. These cigarettes are exclusively for those persons who would be one in a party who return the largest number of empty boxes of this brand of cigarettes in 1888.

SPREADING OUT.—The business of A. C. Clark & Co.'s drug store, 101 Alder street, is much enlarged. The little girl is still there. The new drug and soda fountain is one of the finest in the city. The new soda fountain is the latest and most up-to-date.
